The great secrets to being prosperous and out of poverty

I dedicate this work to my wife Eliana, who supported me at all times, to my parents who always supported me and who sacrificed to give me an education, to my brothers for everything we have lived and fought, to my teachers, who insisted in getting their teachings in my head, my friends, who always encouraged me to carry out this project, and in general to all those who in some way helped me throughout these years, so that I could specify This work, to those who gave me what is necessary to carry out the studies concerning this work that today I dedicate to all of them this book.

I know that these words are not enough to express my gratitude, but I hope that with them, they give to understand my feelings of appreciation and affection to all of them.

INTRODUCTION

The first thing that comes to mind is: because the poor do not have money and the rich do have money; But what makes the difference between one and the other is not money; The biggest difference between a rich person and a poor person is their thoughts and attitudes.

The way of thinking and seeing things is what creates the gap between rich and poor. Who thinks as rich has the insured wealth and who thinks as poor has assured poverty and therefore failure.

I'm sure a lot of us have asked ourselves:

Why are there people who reach wealth quickly and legally, and why others cannot get out of poverty, regardless of the opportunities presented to them?

Why are there men and women who cannot reach the payment of the next fortnight with a peso, while some forge wealth that lasts several generations?

This is not due to any kind of ritual or secret that only a few know. The answer lies in "the way of thinking." The rich are rich-minded, the poor are always thinking about the formula to avoid bankruptcy, while the rich think, how do I make this business profitable and successful by winning the maximum possible?

The rich are very clear about their strategy; the important thing is to trust that they have the right to succeed, as much or more than others.

Another difference is that rich people focus all their attention, their thoughts, their emotions and SPEAK on new ideas, projects, businesses and investments. Conversely, poor people think all the time in the lives of others, criticizing negatively, generating gossip and rumors.

The rich man thinks about what other people's habits can be learned to succeed, and the poor man only admires others without taking any action to do what the rich do. Or many times they simply envy successful people with money.

The important thing is to understand that being rich or poor is an apprenticeship, not a condition of birth. Remember that it is possible to adopt a millionaire mentality and one of the ways is to read finance books, talk to financially successful people, and attend seminars and conferences.

It is important to look for new ways to learn and acquire the skills necessary to start a business of your own and be financially independent for financial well-being at work or at school. When we face an opportunity, to impel our mind so that it generates new options of triumph, instead of discarding it thinking that we are not ready to take advantage of it.

We all want to have money and live in abundance. We are fascinated by those who have already achieved it. We would like to know how they did it and how we could get it.

The only truth is that the difference between the rich and those who are not rich is that the former understand and do the things that others do not understand or do not understand. The rich follow rules of behavior that have helped them achieve fortune and these rules are what separate them from everyone else.

He has endeavored to codify this behavior so that we can imitate it and improve our financial position. Specifically, they tell us the following: what people do to earn money; how they continue to win it, in a sort of virtuous circle; how they keep it once obtained; how they spend it; how they invest it; how they enjoy it; and how they donate it in an altruistic way (fortunate they).

Train your brain to be smart with money

Just as a person can improve in mental abilities to make quick calculations or to be more creative, there is also a way in which you can make your brain help you save money.

Although it helps a lot to have a background in economics, administration, finance or any other area in which the functioning of money is better understood; sometimes it is not enough to develop good financial habits.

This, because most times the wishes do not match the objectives or goals you have when making decisions about expenses: for example, if you get to see a discount on a piece of clothing that caught your attention, In general, he will tend to buy it without thinking much, for two reasons: one, he is in "promotion" and two, he liked it.

It is in this way how many times, even if a person sticks to a budget or is clear when something is need or "taste", sometimes it is simply carried away by those impulses that, equally, does not mean that it will be a fatal financial mistake.

The theme is to be better every day when making decisions and simply can "I can" or "I cannot" easily without having to have remorse or that
